Baklandet

Baklandet is also known as the oldest part of the city centre. It is the name for the colourful wooden houses and narrow streets along the east side of Nidelv River, right where the Old Town Bridge from 1861 is located. The red Old Town Bridge was only constructed as a draw bridge in 1681 after the big fire. The area is most charming and has a special atmosphere. Here you will also find the only bicycle lift in the world called "Trampe".

Nidaros Cathedral and the Archbishop's Palace

Nidaros Cathedral is the world's northernmost medieval cathedral, with more than 1000 years of history. Built over the tomb of St. Olav, the cathedral is an important destination for pilgrims. The Cathedral is known for its beautiful stained glass windows, and the magnificent western façade. The Archbishop's Palace is located right next to the cathedral and houses several exhibitions, among them the Crown Regalia of Norway.

Rockheim – the National museum of popular music

This spectacular and interactive museum charts the development of contemporary Norwegian music and popular culture from 1950 until today. A visit at Rockheim is a digital and a high tech experience. Here you can take an active part in Norwegian pop and rock history, pass through the decades, listen to music and feel the atmosphere through sound, images, films and exhibits.

Kristiansten Fortress

Kristiansten Fortress was built to defend Trondheim from the east. The fortress was constructed by Johan Caspar de Cicignon after the big fire in 1681. Construction was finished in 1685 and soon after it was used to protect the city from invading Swedish in 1718. Later it was used as fire-watch and still houses canons that are used for ceremonial salves.

Sverresborg Trøndelag Folk Museum

This open air museum is the 3rd largest cultural history museum in Norway, and has an impressive collection of houses, artifacts and photos, dated as far back as the 12th century. Located in picturesque surroundings on Sverresborg, close to the city center, the museum is a must-see. Based around the ruins of King Sverre's castle (Norway's oldest medieval stonecastle) the museum exhibits the story of Trøndelag and Trondheim through three main themes: The old town, The rural department and the castle ruins. With both outdoor- and indoor exhibitions our main mission is to tell a good story.

Stiftsgården – Royal Residence

Stiftsgården is the King's official residence in Trondheim and the largest wooden palace in Scandinavia. It was built for Cecilie Christine Schøller between 1774 and 1778, and thus, not originally supposed to be the home of the Norwegian monarchy. The palace, centrally situated on the city's most important thoroughfare, was built with more than one hundred rooms and halls, in Baroque classicistic style with elements of Rococo and Neo-classicism. From 1906 the palace became the official royal residence in Trondheim and used in connection with the royal coronations. Guided tours from 01.06 – 13.08.23.

Gråkallbanen – Northernmost Tram in the world

The Gråkallbanen line operates as part of the public transportation system, since 1924 on 8.8km narrow gauge tracks from the city centre to Lian, in the outskirt of Trondheim. It is the northernmost tramline in the world. On a daily basis the tram runs approximately every 15min and needs about 40min to get to the final destination stopping at 21 stations. It is possible to book the veteran tram with carriages from the 50ies and experience the drive in 25min without stopping in between.

TOUR 17 HIKING IN ESTENSTADMARKA

Experience Norwegian nature like the locals on this challenging hike through Estenstadmarka and Burmaklippen, Trondheims "mini Trolltunga".

DESCRIPTION

A coach brings you to Bekken parking where the hike starts towards Burmaklippen. Although this cliff, does not have the same dimensions or equal height of the well known Trolltunga, it is still worth the trek. Following a forest path upward you pass a small creek and take a slightly secluded path downward to the Burma rock. The cliff leans down slightly towards the tip so one feels the source of gravity and gives a sense that you are actually higher up than 50 m. From the top of the cliff you can see over the beautiful cultural landscape and toward Trondheimsfjord.

Continuing on through Estenstadmarka make your way to a mountain lodge where you will be treated to refreshments and have time to enjoy the tranquil scenery before heading back down the trail passing by lakes.
